Designing for Winter Interest

A skillfully designed garden reveals itself equally in winter as in summer. When done right a garden can make homeowners actually look forward to winter. Christina Salwitz, The Personal Garden Coach and co-author of Fine Foliage will share her horticultural and design knowledge to help participants showcase plants and other garden components such as containers, focal points, and structure to make the winter garden come alive. In addition to Christina's presentation, we hope to have a lighting demonstration and a happy hour! APLD and WSNLA CEUs pending.

2017 Annual Symposium: Great Design/Quality Construction

Come join us for a day showcasing the many built components that bring our designs to life. Subject matter experts will train us on the latest materials and construction details that turn our 2-dimensional drawings into 3-dimensional works of art. Experts in steel fabrication, water features, concrete construction, specialty wood materials and more will be on hand to discuss best practices. The day will be capped off with a "missing link" panel discussion on the design details that matter most to our installers. It promises to be a very informative day. APLD, WSNLA and ASLA CEUs pending.

Showcasing a Designed Landscape—Photography for Portfolio and Website

Ever wondered how to click that winning shot of your client's garden with the light falling perfectly on the swaying grasses? And no, one does not usually just happen to be there at that moment! Come and learn how to create that magic from David Perry, photographer, plant enthusiast and storyteller extraordinaire. David will share his tips and tricks, coach us to frame a garden scene and teach us to edit the photos to create a professional shot! APLD and WSNLA CEUs pending.

Late June 2017

Understanding Seattle's Stormwater Code

Seattle's Stormwater Code and Manual became effective on January 1, 2016. Understanding how these codes impact your design work in Seattle and navigating the City process can be confusing and frustrating...even if you attended one of the City-sponsored training sessions. In this program we will specifically address how the codes affect small residential landscape projects. APLD and WSNLA CEUs pending.

Designing to a Budget

Please join us for a working session with two local contractors and one designer as we discuss the strategies of designing to a budget. Topics will include setting expectations with the client about realistic costs, what it takes to manage a fair competitive bid process, how to illicit the client's budget from them, and how to provide solutions that meet that budget. We will learn the ins and outs of closing the deal! APLD and WSNLA CEUs pending.
